

Jamie Baskerville Martin Honored by Virginia Lawyers Media

RICHMOND, Va. – Jamie Baskerville Martin has been named as one of the 2010 'Influential Women of Virginia' by Virginia Lawyers Media. This award recognizes outstanding women in Virginia who have made significant contributions to their communities and professions.

Jamie is counsel to a number of non-profit hospitals and specialty physician groups. Other members of the healthcare bar have come to trust Jamie's expertise in healthcare law and have repeatedly voted her onto lists including The Best Lawyers in America, Legal Elite, and Super Lawyers. For two years running, she was one of the youngest of the "Top 25" women lawyers named in the Super Lawyers listing.

Jamie's extensive community involvement reflects her varied interests and her commitment to a wide range of issues. From the Virginia Bar Association's Health Law Section Council to the American Heart Association's Go Red for Women Sponsorship committee, Jamie's commitment to health and health law issues reflects her passion for her chosen specialty. She donates her legal skills as pro bono counsel to a number of area non-profits, including the International Hospital for Children.

Ms. Martin will be among those honored at the awards presentation on May 20, 2010 at the Omni Hotel in Richmond, Virginia.