

MARIAH RILEY

WORKERS' COMPENSATION

804.775.7207 | MRILEY@LAWMH.COM

Mariah is an associate in our Workers' Compensation practice.

Mariah specializes in workers' compensation defense for employers and insurance carriers in the Commonwealth. She manages cases through all phases of litigation, including case investigation, discovery, hearings, and appeals, while providing strategic legal counsel to minimize client exposure and maximize favorable outcomes.

Mariah graduated from the University of Richmond School of Law in Richmond, VA. While earning her law degree, Mariah held internships at the Goochland County Attorney's Office, Virginia529, and Markel Group. She served as a student attorney for the University of Richmond School of Law's Intellectual Property and Transactional Law Clinic, where she supported clients in establishing non-profit organizations and drafting contracts. She also served as the Online Editor for the University of Richmond Law Review and as a Board Member for the Richmond Law & Business Forum. Before law school, Mariah worked in the billing department at an AmLaw 100 firm.

When not assisting clients, Mariah enjoys cooking, reading, and spending time with her two long-hair chihuahuas, Cooper and Gizmo.

EDUCATION

- University of South Florida, BA, 2021
- University of Richmond School of Law, J.D. 2024

PROFESSIONAL AFFILIATIONS:

- Virginia Association of Defense Attorneys (VADA)
- Virginia Workers' Compensation American Inn of Court

ADMISSIONS

- Virginia

